

THE END OF THE KILLINGS ON DEATH AVENUE

Mayor Approves the Bill Compelling Central to Sink Its Tracks.

Mayor McClellan has signed the bill calling for the sinking of the New York Central tracks on Eleventh avenue, so that no more lives will be lost on that thoroughfare. As Gov. Higgins is known to favor the measure, the State Senate bill will become a law.

This means that the attempt to steal West street and Eleventh avenue for an "L" freight line has been defeated. The company must now construct its own subway or the city will proceed in condemnation proceedings and abolish the tracks.

The Mayor in signing the bill affixed a memorandum saying:

"There is no question in my mind that legislation is desirable in order to secure the use of the public streets by street railways operating at grade in the borough of Manhattan. While many of the provisions of the proposed bill are open to criticism, and while there are some doubts as to whether its enactment will accomplish the object sought, I consider it a step in the right direction, and therefore have no hesitation in accepting it on behalf of the city of New York."

It has been suggested that in case the bill proves defective it will be possible to seek relief next year from the Legislature, and have the act amended. I see no reason, however, why the proponents of the bill should wait a year before attempting to correct such defects as the bill may contain. It seems to me that it would be more advisable, after a careful consideration of the objections urged against the bill, to propose amendments and present them to the present Legislature."

ROOSEVELT LABOR'S FOE IF HE FAVORS BILL.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—President Roosevelt, of the American Federation of Labor, and A. Furush, President of the Seamen's Union, caused a furor to-day before the House Committee on Judiciary during the hearing on anti-injunction bills by denouncing the Gilbert Anti-Injunction bill, which is said to have been drawn by Mr. Garfield, Chief of the Bureau of Corporations, and to have the endorsement of President Roosevelt.

Of the President's endorsement of the Gilbert bill, Mr. Furush said:

"If he understands this bill and then gives it his endorsement, he is an enemy to honest labor struggling under adverse conditions for a better life. He is an enemy to the human body. We do not believe it, will not believe it."

The Gilbert bill grants courts sitting in equity absolute jurisdiction in all cases growing out of labor troubles. The equity powers in the bill are violently opposed by the labor leaders.

Several hundred men in the plant who witnessed the accident were overcome that they had to quit work for an hour.

CRASH CREATES ALARM IN ALBANY CAPITOL.

ALBANY, March 14.—A heavily loaded section of the sleeping in the Assembly document room fell about noon to-day with a crash heard all over the side of the Capitol. It created alarm, because it was within a few feet of the condemned Assembly staircase, which has been barred against the public for several weeks.

It is believed, however, that the collapse was due simply to the overcrowding of the shelves with bundles of printed matter. No one was hurt, but there were several narrow escapes.

An examination will be made to ascertain whether the accident bears any relation to the settling of the staircase.

WHITE PLAINS, N. ## HIS FATHER DEAD, SO IS KILLED IN STOCKEN HOME

Man Crossing Continent to Attend Funeral Accidentally Shot.

(Special to The Evening World.) PHILADELPHIA, March 14.—Beside the body of his father, Capt. George Jacob Burnap, U. S. N., retired, at the family residence in this city, lies that of George Payne Burnap, son of the naval veteran. The young man was accidentally shot and killed by Arthur M. Burnap, his brother, who is nearly frantic at the calamity that has befallen the family. Mrs. H. C. Thompson, a sister, is also overcome.

The elder Burnap died on Wednesday last week, and in order that George might have time to reach here from his home in Santa Cruz, Cal., the funeral was deferred until to-day. The son reached here last night and retired at midnight. Arthur, his brother, entered the room shortly afterward to get a piece of paper from a table upon which he had previously placed a loaded revolver. In the darkness the shot was knocked upon the floor and discharged. The bullet entered the left side of the forehead, causing a fatal wound. He died in the Germania Hospital. The funeral services were postponed, and in honor of the city of New York.

LOCKWOOD USED SECOND TODD WILL

Showed It to Undertaker as Authority for Ordering Old Woman's Body Cremated.

The contest over the will of Mrs. Margaretta Todd, the octogenarian owner of the Hotel Von Hoffman, was resumed an hour behind time to-day before Surrogate Fitzgerald, who had held the case over the week-end. P. W. Ratcliffe, manager of a burial company, again took the stand. He said he was employed to bring the body of Mrs. Todd from Philadelphia to New York the day she was found dead on the tracks of the Philadelphia and Reading Railway. He said Ingersoll Lockwood, the white-haired lawyer, who drew the will in dispute, in which he is named as executor, employed him to bring the body to New York.

Answering questions by the attorney for Mrs. Todd's daughter and grandson, who are contesting the will which was drawn in 1902, the witness said: "Mr. Lockwood said he wanted the body cremated the next day, which was Sunday. I said: 'This is very unusual to cremate a body without the consent of the family.'"

Showed 1903 Will.

"I was her legal adviser," said Mr. Lockwood.

"Did she leave a will?" I asked, and Mr. Lockwood said she did.

"I asked to see it and he displayed a big bundle of papers out of which he took a will, which he showed to me. It was dated in 1903 and named Mrs. Toussay as executor."

Mr. Ratcliffe said that Mr. Lockwood was not named in that will as executor.

He said that when Lockwood went to the Burial Company's office he found Mr. Toussay (brother-in-law of the contestant) there, and said, pointing at him: "I don't want you to take any orders from that man. He is an interloper." He said Mr. Lockwood did not say he was an executor, but a trustee.

Wouldn't Cremate Body.

The witness produced an order dated Oct. 2, 1903, signed "Ingersoll Lockwood, as attorney and trustee of the late Margaretta Todd," directing him to "prepare her body suitably and place same in the receiving tomb at Woodlawn until the arrival of her daughter, Mrs. Frank Toussay, in this country from Europe."

He said this order was given after the refusal to cremate the body.

"I told Mr. Lockwood I would put the body in a receiving vault until the return of the executor named in the will. He had shown me, and I would do nothing else," said the witness.

Batcliffe said his bill of $394.43 was objected to as excessive by Lockwood. It was paid, however, but witness was not allowed to say who paid it.

George W. Amory, manager of the Hotel Von Hoffman, testified next. He said:

"Mrs. Todd called me to her room one morning last June and said her will had been stolen from her desk."

He was not allowed to say what date Mrs. Todd gave for this stolen will. The contestants claim this was the missing will of 1903.

Mr. Amory said Ingersoll Lockwood occupied a 40 apartment at the Von Hoffman, but paid no rent. He left after a quarrel with Mrs. Todd.

"The day the news of the finding of Mrs. Todd's dead body on the tracks near Philadelphia came," said Amory, "Lockwood showed me a paper which he said was her will."

"I said, 'That is no good. They will break it' and he replied: 'All right. Let 'em. If they do I've got another.'"

Several letters written to Amory by Mrs. Todd from Atlantic City after her quarrel with her white-haired lawyer Lockwood, were read as evidence. All were bitter against Lockwood.

Stewart, of the District Court, who held that the Probate Judges ceased to have jurisdiction over St. John after March 1, when his preliminary examination should have been held.

gathered the material that made possible the Lexow investigation, he has been gathering enemies. His criticisms of public officials and private citizens have been scathing and widely distributed. Only last Sunday, speaking from his pulpit, he referred to John D. Rockefeller as a "self-confessed criminal and a fugitive from justice."

Informed Weeks Ago.

District Attorney Jerome refused to discuss the Parkhurst plot this afternoon, but from other sources it was learned that the information of the plot of the plot was lodged with him several weeks ago.

The investigation, in which Supt. McIntire of the Parkhurst plot, has been taking an active part, has been under way since. One rumor has it that police officers were among those interested in the scheme to put Dr. Parkhurst out of the way, but a rumor of this sort is the natural outcome of any report having to do with an attempt to induce him.

ACCIDENT BLOCKS SUBWAY

Express Trains Stalled from Spring Street to Harlem for More Than Two Hours When Car Jumped the Track.

While passengers, packed in the cars like oats in a bin, fumed at the delay and choked in the foul air traffic on the downtown express track was tied up from just above Brooklyn Bridge to Harlem to-day at the very height of the rush hour. The blockade resulted from the derailment of one wheel of a train at the Spring street station.

Many travelers, preferring the danger of a quick end by electrocution to a slow one by suffocation, braved the third rail and walked crosswise to some of the exits from the tunnel. Others, less foolhardy, stayed where they were and suffered.

Fully 100,000 of them, were held up in the bore breathing the second-hand, oil-laden air that somebody else had already breathed.

The breakdown occurred in the third car of a heavily loaded eight-car subway train just at 9 o'clock. The wooden box guarding the brake shoe on the west side of the car broke and a rear wheel bounced off the metal upon which it was sliding. Luckily it caught on the guard rail which stretches alongside the express right-of-way at the Spring street curve.

They were unoccupied from the third car and run to the bridge, where the panting, disheveled, crumpled occupants untangled themselves from one another and fled with damaged hats and blue faces for the fresh air. Fifteen or twenty women had mild attacks of hysteria on the bridge station platform when they were finally released from the fearful jam.

Passengers on the express trains behind the stalled train waited for more than two hours when the car jumped the track.

In some instances passengers were allowed to jump out on the local tracks and scurry to the nearest station, braving whizzing trains and the third rail as they went.

In half an hour men were sent along the subway to order southbound locals to wait along the stalled express and take aboard south of the museum express travelers as were willing to drive the four-block run across the third rail from one car platform to the other.

In some instances the gaps between the doors were bridged with short planks. Still there were some timorous ones who would take no chances. They just stood in the tied-up expresses, gasping like hooked minnows as their lungs, wrestled with air that was thick enough to choke a horse and a cow.

Traffic was resumed after two and one-half hours.

Business was almost at a standstill at the opening hour in the Stock Exchange. Still there were some timorous ones who would take no chances. They just stood in the tied-up expresses, gasping like hooked minnows as their lungs, wrestled with air that was thick enough to choke a horse and a cow.

BABY COVERED WITH SORES

Would Scratch and Tear the Flesh Unless Hands Were Tied—Wasted to a Skeleton—Awful Suffering for Over a Year—Grew Worse Under Doctors—Skin Now Clear.

WOULD HAVE DIED BUT FOR CUTICURA.

"My little son, when about a year and a half old, began to have sores come out on his face. I had a physician treat him, but the sores grew worse. Then they began to come on his arms, then on other parts of his body, and then one came on his chest, worse than the others. Then I called another physician. Still he grew worse. At the end of about a year and a half of suffering he grew so bad I had to tie his hands in cloth at night to keep him from scratching the sores and tearing the flesh."

"He got to be a mere skeleton, and was hardly able to walk. My aunt advised me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. So great was her faith in it that she gave me a small piece of Soap to try and a little of the Ointment. I took it home without any faith, but to please her I tried it, and it seemed to dry up the sores a little."

"I sent to the drug store and got a cake of the Soap and a box of the Ointment and followed the directions, and at the end of about two months the sores were all well. He has never had any sores of any kind since."

"He is now strong and healthy, and I can sincerely say that only for your most wonderful remedies my precious child would have died from these terrible sores. I used only one cake of Soap and about three boxes of Ointment. (signed) Mrs. Egbert Sheldon, R. F. D. No. 1, Woodville, Conn., April 22, 1905."
